Title:	AM-28-1 to Res 3.: Climate Adaptation Against Inequalities
Tabled by:	Green Party of England and Wales

From line 27 to 29:

While right-wing politicians continue to minimise such problems, the Greens must promote inclusive, cooperative adaptation. Countries that ~~protects people now while, at~~have exceeded their fair allocation of emissions must transition to a renewable energy model, whilst poorer countries with the ~~same time,~~least emissions must be allowed to increase their consumption to fund development of renewable energy sources. We call for an approach to adaptation that recognises historical exploitation and inequalities, whilst also addressing structural causes, both locally and internationally.
