Ensuring our foundation is ambitious, grounded, & sustainable.

INTRODUCTION

Hi! I'm Harry (he/they) from Bristol, a city near England's border with Wales. I went to school during Brexit & Covid, which catapulted me into progressive politics. Since then, I have performed several roles within local, national, & European green parties. I want to represent the EGP in GEF's General Assembly because I've experienced the impact of GEF's Greenhouse. Its ambition to ground young activists across Europe in connections, political ecology, & organising skills is fostering a more sustainable movement. This ambitious, grounded, & sustainable strategy should be institutionalised.

AMBITIOUS

Since its beginning, our movement has always had ambitious plans for the planet & its people.
I'll ensure the foundation & its journal support the EGP's European Parliament election preparations with pragmatic & radical policies on areas like the economy & security. Potential policies could be tested in citizen assemblies that embed grassroots feedback into the process.

GROUNDED

It's vital GEF's work is grounded in the experience & expertise of academics, citizens, & members.
Therefore, I'll push for increased dialogue between EGP members and GEF, like strategy labs, post-election debriefs, or rapid-fire joint releases in reaction to emerging topics. Around EGP Congresses & GEF GAs, I'll provide space for delegates to voice concerns, ideas, & questions.

SUSTAINABLE

In today's civil society, we must make sure our movement's foundations, parties, & people are sustainable.
On FYEG's FCAC, I've seen funding streams shrink, and so will encourage funding diversification. GEF must grow the Greenhouse Community of young activists. Finally, I'll engage with foundations, NGOs, & think tanks outside the Brussels green bubble to create new cross-solidarity links.

CONCLUSION

Simply put, I will ensure my Greenhouse experience does not go to waste. My reinvigorated ambition points me to EGP's next Manifesto. My academic grounding suggests more collaboration. My improved sustainability means I will not let you down. I'd be grateful for your endorsement and vote.
