funds, is an opportunity for secure and sustainable business models that will benefit millions of European farmers.

The EU must promote agricultural practices that reduce emissions, protect the environment and people's health, and foster social justice. It should demand a continuous assessment of international trade agreements in which the EU is involved, with the dual objective of preventing environmental and economic dumping that may result from lowering food quality standards. Quality controls on food are a crucial tool for this, and treaties with third-party states should be reevaluated when it is found that the requirements within the EU are not being met.
