Insert from line 363 to 364:

The systems must be made more transparent. We need to get better at saying what is going on inside them and why. We will strive to achieve a common definition of data dignity with the other worldwide players, as data travels beyond the limit of the EU. In a world with data dignity, digital stuff would typically be connected with the humans who want to be known for having made it. In some versions of the idea, people could get paid for what they create, even when it is filtered and recombined through big models, and tech hubs would earn fees for facilitating things that people want to do. We also want to ensure AI promotes, not hampers, the Green Deal with key
