countries. We demand that companies adopt sustainable purchasing practices and ~~promote mission-led~~ adapt their business models ~~to free supply chains~~ in such a way that decouples economic success from exploitation in supply chains, including through the promotion of mission-led business model.

Explanation / Comment

All sorts of companies, including mainstream businesses, should be made to review and adapt their business models so that they are not reliant on or benefit from exploitation in their supply chains. This is in line with wording pushed by the Greens/EFA in the European Parliament on the CSDDD. Beyond that, it's always good to see more mission-led companies of course.
